Control Power Concepts, Inc.

To whom it may concern,

I have been in a position to work with and hire Control Power Concepts (CPC) on numerous occasions over the last 5 years. In my role as a Commissioning project manager for multiple Data Center Clients, CPC was my primary vendor for Electrical Acceptance testing. I also contracted their personnel to supplement my own group on several occasions when accelerated schedules required more manpower than I currently had available.

Mr. Crockett and his personnel are professional, knowledgeable, always there to support a project, and always provided high quality work. They work very well in the ever-changing environment that is the construction industry, always willing to work with new and changing processes or new software requirements. Their personnel also do well at integrating with the larger project team and helping to move a project to a successful end.

CPC is the group I recommend to anyone looking for Electrical Acceptance Testing, Electrical Systems Studies, and Operational support services. I trust them to get the job done, and would hire them again and again for future projects.

Respectfully,

William D. Grover Jr.
